An Italian neoclassical period walnut side table from the early 19th century, with richly carved décor and grey marble top. Born in Italy during the early years of the 19th century, this exquisite side table features a rectangular variegated grey marble top sitting above a richly carved apron, adorned with pierced scoop motifs and rosettes. The table is raised on four stunning tapered legs with abundant décor and fluted accents in their lower section, connected to one another through side stretchers unusually placed midway and adorned with guilloche motifs.
