

MIDCENTURY FRENCH BRASS TWO-PART FULL LENGTH RECTANGULAR MIRROR, CIRCA 1950

$7,500

A French Midcentury brass two-part full-length mirror from circa 1950. Born in France circa 1950, this exquisite Midcentury brass full-length mirror embodies the elegant simplicity and refined craftsmanship characteristic of the period. The mirror is designed in a two-part structure, with a smaller upper section transitioning into a larger lower one. This design not only enhances its functionality but also adds a touch of visual interest and sophistication. The brass frame, with its warm golden tones, complements the mirror's clean, rectangular lines. The simplicity of the design allows the quality of the materials to take center stage, highlighting the mirror's timeless appeal. The brass has been carefully polished to a subtle sheen, reflecting light beautifully and adding a touch of elegance to any space. Ideal for use in a bedroom, dressing room, or entryway, this full-length mirror combines practicality with decorative charm. Its tall, proportions make it a perfect addition to smaller spaces, while the dual-section design ensures it stands out as a stylish statement piece. With its harmonious blend of functionality and aesthetic appeal, this French Midcentury brass mirror from circa 1950 will bring a touch of historical elegance and modern sophistication to any home. The understated design and luxurious materials make it a versatile and cherished addition, offering both practical utility and timeless beauty.
