

MIDCENTURY FRENCH FAUX-BOIS PLANTER WITH CIRCULAR TOP AND LOWER SHELF

$2,850

A French faux-bois garden planter from the mid 20th century with circular top and lower shelf. This mid-20th-century French faux-bois garden planter is a charming union of artistry and nature, effortlessly bringing rustic elegance to any space. Crafted with the distinct 'faux-bois' technique, which translates to 'false wood,' this planter presents a realistic appearance of weathered wood while offering the durability of its concrete composition. The planter's circular top, serves as a stunning platform for showcasing vibrant flowers or lush greenery. This piece graciously extends its utility with a lower shelf, subtly suspended by slightly splaying legs. This feature not only provides additional display space for smaller plants or garden decor but also contributes to the overall stability of the piece. The subtly splayed legs, securing the lower shelf, are a sculptural delight – mimicking the natural form of tree branches, further perpetuating the piece's woodsy charm. The planter's weathered appearance, with textured lines imitating bark, invites the romantic aura of an enchanted forest into the home. In a sun-drenched conservatory, on a stone patio, or nestled within a garden, this faux-bois planter becomes more than a place for plants—it transforms into a captivating focal point. Imagine it adorned with cascading flowers in a hallway or offering a warm welcome as a unique entryway piece.
