

OVERSIZED BLACK FOREST 19TH CENTURY CARVED OAK STAG RACK WITH ANTLERS

$59,000

A Black Forest oversized carved oak coat and hat rack from the 19th century depicting stags with antlers and umbrella stand.

Created during the 19th century, this stunning Black Forest rack captures our attention with its oversized proportions and skillful carvings. Our eyes are immediately drawn to the two stags facing away from one another and topped with very large antlers. Showcasing great finessed in their execution particularly visible on the details of their coat, they exude a majestic expression. They are alert, their ears raised up. Their necks are connected to one another through a central section carved with foliage and twisted rope motifs and topped with a sphere reminiscent of a regalia. These carved heads are resting on a central column with fluted and gadroon motifs, supporting additional antlers of smaller sizes. The lower part showcases an umbrella stand with brass ring, the ensemble being completed by oval container. Resting on bun feet, this Black Forest oversized carved oak coat rack from the 19th century will make a statement in any entryway!
