PAIR OF 1900S ANGLO-INDIAN LOW SIDE TABLES WITH CURULE BASES AND TWISTED ACCENTS

$6,700

A pair of Anglo-Indian low side tables from the early 20th century, with Curule bases and twisted accents. Born in the early 1900s, each of this pair of Anglo-Indian low tables features a rectangular top sitting above an apron presenting a single drawer accented with oblique reeded motifs. The Curule base is made of two x-form legs connected to one another through a cross stretcher and presenting similar twisted patterns. With their graceful lines and lovely patina, these Anglo-Indian low side tables circa 1900 will be great decorative additions to any living room, perhaps used as drink tables.
