

PAIR OF FRENCH MIDCENTURY BRONZE BIRDS TABLE LAMPS WITH VERDIGRIS PATINA, WIRED

$7,500

A pair of French Midcentury bronze table lamps from circa 1950 depicting birds with verdigris patina and resting on circular lucite bases. These French Midcentury table lamps, dating back to circa 1950, are a splendid representation of post-war design sensibilities, marrying the elegance of bronze with the modernity of lucite bases. Each lamp features a meticulously crafted bird, its details highlighted by a verdigris patina that adds depth and character to the sculpture. The birds perch gracefully atop domes and circular lucite bases, lending an air of lightness and transparency to the design. Professionally rewired for the USA, these lamps not only serve as functional pieces but also as artful objects that reflect the innovative spirit of the Midcentury era. They are ideal for adding a touch of sophistication and a hint of nature to any interior space, be it on side tables flanking a sofa, on a console in the entryway, or as striking accents on a bedroom nightstand. The blend of materials and the thematic representation of birds make these lamps versatile for various decor themes, from traditional to contemporary. Their historical context, combined with their artistic execution, makes them a conversation piece that adds both illumination and intrigue to a home.
